TELEGRAM FROM WAR DEPARTMENT

The following telegram was received at this office this morning
from the War Department:

Washington, June 25, 1917.

ENLIST NOW!
YOUR PRESIDENT CALLS YOU!
THE ARMY WANTS YOU!
THE COUNTRY NEEDS YOU!
Come on, you loyal Americans,
and let's help free the World
that our children

MAY LIVE IN PEACE.

(Signed) H. P. McCAIN,
The Adjutant General of the Army.
SECRETARY BAKER'S CALL.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington.

Statement by the Secretary of War:
The cavalry, engineers, coast artillery, signal corps and quartermaster
regiments of the Regular Army have already been brought to war strength.
25,000 recruits are needed to complete the new regiment of infantry
and field artillery.

25,000 additional recruits are desired at the earliest practicable date to fill vacancies, in order that the War Strength of 300,000 may be maintained.

Facilities are in readiness for placing these 70,000 men under proper training.

Any delay in obtaining this number will necessarily cause the loss of invaluable time.

It is the earnest desire of the War Department that 70,000 single men, between the ages of 18 and 40, who have no dependents and who are not engaged in professions, business, or trades vitally necessary to prosecution
of the war, be enlisted in the Regular Army before the 30th of June, 1917.

NEWTON D. BAKER,
Secretary of War.

PATRIOTS CALLED UPON TO FIGHT

July Fourth Set Apart By County Judge For State
Guard Enlistment.

VOLUNTEERS ARE WANTED

Designates the Points Where Recruiting Offices Will Be Open.—Ringing Appeal.

County Judge Knight has issued the following call for volunteers in Christian county to join the State Guard:

Whereas our forefathers set apart
the Fourth of July as a day on which the American people should give thanks to God for the freedom and liberty that has been our heritage, and whereas this freedom and liberty are now threatened with destruction by a foreign enemy, and it now behooves
all loyal and patriotic Americans to rally to the defense of our flag and our country, and whereas the Armies of the United States are still far short
of full war strength;

And whereas the State of Kentucky
and County of Christian have failed to furnish their quota of volunteers, and have in that way failed to do their full duty up to this time, and whereas
our own regiment, the Third Infantry,
Kentucky National Guard, is short
more than five hundred men, and Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States, and A. O. Stanley, governor of Kentucky, have issued their
call for volunteers;

Now therefore by the authority vested
in me as County Judge of Christian county, Kentucky, I do hereby set apart and designate July 4th, 1917,
as Volunteer Enlistment day for Christian county, Kentucky, and hereby call upon every white patriotic male citizen of our county between the ages of eighteen and forty years
to offer themselves on that day for enlistment in the Kentucky National Guard, and I hereby designate Hopkinsville, Crofton, Pembroke, Lafayette and Gracey as the points at which such enlistments shall be made, and I hereby further call upon all patriotic citizens of this county not eligible by reason of their sex or otherwise to use their best endeavors to arouse all men eligible for military duty to a sense of the impending danger to their country, and their duty to defend and protect it.

In testimony whereof I have here-unto subscribed my name as County Judge of Christian county, and here-unto attach the seal of the county on this 26th day of June, 1917.

J. WALTER KNIGHT, Co. Judge.

Highwayman's Victim Dies.

Marvin Murphy, who was shot by a highwayman Saturday afternoon,
died Sunday afternoon at Owensboro,
where he was rushed in the hopes of saving his life. Murphy and Jesse Wilkins were returning from work
at Mercer, three miles from Central City, and were walking along the railroad track. At a lonely place on the road a highwayman came from behind some cars, and evidently knowing that it was pay day, demanded their money. Jesse Wilkins, upon demand, placed all of his money, $16,
in his cap and threw it to the ground. Murphy had only recently gone to work at this mine and his pay was small. The highwayman, seeming to think he was not giving
all he had, told Murphy that he had not enough money to bother about,
so that he would just shoot him and fire one shot from one of the two revolvers which he carried.

150 French women have gone to

ed So that Selection of Army May Begin.

Washington, June 26.—Announcements of the local exemption boards
of twenty-four states who will select candidates for the National army under the draft law, were made here
today.

Rules governing the exemptions
have not yet been issued, but soon
will be, so that the work of selecting
the army may begin next week.

In a great majority of cases the personnel shows that the President followed the suggestion of army officers
that city and county officials be utilized.

The Boards of exemption to pass upon claims of exemption from the army draft in Kentucky, have been appointed by Gov. Stanley and approved by the war department.

UP TO U. S. GOVERNMENT

Cities Cannot Pass Ordinances
to Punish For Treason.

Evansville, Ind., June 26.—Judge
Fred M. Hostetter, of the Vander-burg County Superior Court, Monday
ruled in the case of Earl Schuyler
that the city has no right to pass an ordinance fixing punishment for treason, but that this is the power of the Federal government alone.

Schuyler was recently convicted
under a city ordinance on the charge
of uttering slurring remarks against President Wilson. He was fined $250
and sentenced to jail for sixty days.
The prosecuting attorney, Lane B.
Osborne, will appeal the case to the State Supreme Court.

Big Dam Breaks.

The dam of the Price River Irrigation Company, twelve miles from Fairview, Utah, is a total loss. Fears that there would be loss of life in the towns of Schofield, Helper, Castle
Gate and Colton, in the path of the 11,
000 feet water, released in the break,
were dispelled with an announcement
by the Rio Grande railroad that its force of men had taken hundreds of persons to safety. Officials of the irrigation company declared the damage
would probably exceed $3,000,000.

COAL BARONS CHARGED WITH FIXING PRICES

Set Cost of Semi-Bituminous Fuel at Conference
in the East.

CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS

Circulars to Operators Instructing Them What Charges Must Be.

New York, June 27.—Testimony
that price lists fixing $3 at the mines
as the cost of semi-bituminous coal
were sent out to operators on the day
after a conference of coal presidents
and operators in this city in January
was introduced by the government in its trial of fifty-one individuals and 102 companies, engaged in coal production, in the federal court here.

It is the government's contention, as set forth in the indictment, that the defendants conspired, in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, to establish prices in the semi-bituminous districts in Virginia and West Virginia.

W. R. J. Zimmerman, secretary of the Smokeless Coal Operators' Association, called as a witness, testified regarding the conference here, held on January 3 at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. He said that those present discussed the price of production in connection with increased cost in rails,
spikes, steel and labor.

"Did any of the operators suggest a price for the coal?" he was asked by Federal counsel.

"Robert H. Gross, president of the New River Company and of the White Oak Coal Company, declared
he thought it was reasonable to charge $3 a ton net at the mines," replied the witness. "Geo. H. Caperton, president of the Scotia Coal and Coke Company, said he thought he would charge $2.50 a ton, although he realized that other members present differed with his idea on the subject."

"Did not Mr. Caperton change his mind as to the price?"

"My impression is that he had finally announced a change of view and that he would charge $3 a ton," the witness answered.

Mr. Zimmerman said that on the following day he sent out circulars,
which he had read at the conference,
to a mailing list of operators, calling for a minimum price of $3 a ton at the mines, beginning April 1, and providing for subsequent increases during the year. The price during the preceding year was from $1.25 to $1.35 a ton.

It was brought out that operators
not members of the association participated in the conference.

CO. D'S ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

Lexington, Ky., June 20, 1917.
To the Citizens of Hopkinsville:

The traveling kitchen was this afternoon officially presented to us by Thos. R. Underwood as your representative, and accepted by me in behalf of the company. We held up the official presentation until the arrival of the last recruits and had taken advantage of the time since arrival to give it a thorough trial. It beats our field range about a thousand per cent. here in camp, though its main advantage is of course when we are hiking. We have the three best cooks in the Regiment in Arnold,
Stewart and Helm, not to mention
mess steward Tresch, who is a classy artist himself. Now, through your generosity, we have the best equipment possible. It will mean a lot to the efficiency of your company. Of course the other companies envy us,
but, as I tell them, they ought to come from a good town. Please accept our thanks. With best wishes and kindest regards, we are,

Sincerely yours,
CO. D, 3d Ky. Inf.

HOME MINSTREL FRIDAY NIGHT

Two Hours Of Fun In Store
For Citizens Who Attend.

CAST OF ONE HUNDRED.

All of the City's Leading Musical Stars to Be In It.

As George Smith says, It will be two hours of solid fun and amusement, or two solid hours of fun and amusement, whichever you prefer.
Anyway, "It" will be the Hopkinsville Home Talent Minstrel show and the time is tomorrow night and the place is the Union Tabernacle.

A great crowd of Hopkinsville people filled the Tabernacle to hear Clarksville's efforts in the minstrel line, but Clarksville won't be in it.
Need we mention more than the fact that one hundred of the best looking girls in town will take part. We know what we are talking about, for
we have attended one of the practices
at the Avalon, and besides, if young people have spirit and enthusiasm
enough to practice for two hours over a steam laundry, the resulting performance is bound to be good.

As we said before, the Annette Kellermanns of Hopkinsville will take a leading part in the performance.
If you do not agree with us, why
bring your ideal along and let us see
her.

The music for the occasion will be furnished by a Concert Orchestra and Brass Band. The costumes will be handsome and attractive and above
all else, you will have the chance of hearing the jokes first—nothing old—
and we venture to prophesy that Guy Starling, king of comedians, will be worth the price of admission.

One of the features of the performance will be the tableau, "Liberty,"
when the lights will be turned out and the colored spot-light will perform miracles with the already beautiful setting.

The performance will be given under the auspices of the Health and Welfare League and the admission
will be 25 and 35 cents with no charge
for reserved seats.

Prof. C. J. Schubert is the director and his daughter, Miss Cecile Schubert, will be the violinist.

HAIL STORMS FREQUENT

And Damage to Growing Crops Are Reported In Some Sections.

For the last seven days farmers
have been much worried by the damage done to crops by hail storms.
Heavy rains have fallen in different parts of the county and high wind
usually accompanied it, while hail stones as large as partridge eggs, in some cases, beat the crops into the ground.

The Fairview section was treated particularly roughly. The hail tore the leaves of the corn and tobacco to shreds and all kinds of young garden
truck were either cut badly or beaten into the ground. The rains also caused some anxiety on account of wheat being ripe and in some cases
already cut.

Lover's Real Life.

Carlyle Blackwell, the "Romeo of the Movies," must pay his wife Mrs.
Ruth H. Blackwell, $110 a week
pending trial of her separation suit.
Also, out of the $26,000 a year, which Blackwell admits he receives as film lover and hero, he must pay $1,000 to his wife's counsel as fees. Legally,
Mrs. Blackwell is seeking her separation decree on the charge of cruelty.

LENS HEMMED ON THREE SIDES

Germans Stop Mining Coal, Fearing Early Capture
of Fuel Center.

FRENCH SNATCH LINE

Russians Are Fighting Valor-
ously—Italians Resisting Savage Austrian Smash.

The slow but sure encirclement of Lens, the important coal center held by the Germans in the department of Pas De Calais, is in process of consummation by the Canadians. Having during the present week captured important vantage points west and southwest of the town, a fresh smash
at the German lines has been rewarded by the occupation of the village of La Coulotte, situated a mile to the south.

With the British forces virtually enveloping the town except on the east, the Germans already have ceased the mining of coal in the immediate vicinity of Lens, thereby seemingly indicating that they realize that their tenure of the position is short-lived.

Although the British war office
aside from the operations around
Lens, reports no activity by Field Marshal Haig's men rising in importance above minor patrol sorties, the Berlin war office asserts that heavy artillery duels are in progress at various points in which enormous quantities of ammunition are being used.

The infantry activity in the regions
between Soissons and Rheims has given way entirely to artillery duels
in the sector of Moulin de Laffaux and a continuance by the Germans of the slow destruction of Rheims with gunfire. Monday night saw an engagement of considerable proportions
northwest of the Hurtebise farm,
where the French captured German
first line trenches and took more than three hundred prisoners.

Although no big engagement has yet developed, lively fighting continues between the Russians and Austro-Germans southwest of Lutsk in Volhynia and between the Strips and Dniester rivers in Galicia. Nothing has come through from either Petrograd or Berlin or Vienna to show the extent of these operations.

It seems probable that all other efforts having failed, Euphrates Venizelos, former premier and a staunch supporter of the entente, will form a new Greek cabinet. Unofficial advice is that the approaching session of the Greek parliament a resolution
will be introduced favoring the entry
of Greece into the war on the side of the entente.

Soldiers Killed, Girls Escape.

Baltimore, June 27.—Two prominent Baltimoreans, members of the Coast Artillery of the Maryland National Guard, were killed Monday
when their automobile turned over on the way to Annapolis. They were Jeremiah Downes and John Murphy, both of Roland Park. The two young women with them were unhurt. The party had been to Chesapeake Beach.

Passion Play Star.

Fraulein Marie Mayer, who played
the part of Mary Magdalene in the great passion play at Oberammergau
in 1910, has been secured by the Redpath Chautauqua for the season of 1917 and will give a dramatic lecture.
Fraulein Mayer has taken part in the passion play three different times;
first as one of the children of Jerusalem in 1890; ten years later as the angel in the Garden of Gethsemane,
and then in 1910 as Mary Magdalene.
She is the first actual participant in the great passion play to appear before an American audience.

The volunteer enlistments Tuesday
under the President's call were 1,421.
A daily enrollment of 5,000 is hoped for.

The American army in France will occupy a position in the center of the

The British and German airmen continue to strive for the mastery in France and Belgium. Sunday witnessed the destruction of five German airplanes in battles in the air and another by anti-aircraft guns, while five others were sent to the earth out of control. The British, however, lost five machines during the operations.

Madame Marguerite A. Steinhell, a French woman, whose trial for murder in Paris in 1909 was a sensation,
the Express announces, has become a British peeress by marrying Lord Abinger. His impending marriage to Madame de Serignac was announced Saturday. She is, according to the Express, none other than Madame Steinhell, who since her recovery
from a breakdown after her acquittal, lived in England, conducting a preserve factory in a London suburb. Lord Abinger, who succeeded to the title on the death of his brother
last month, is a lawyer by profession,
but now a lieutenant of naval reserves.

Would Take Any Color.

The family with guests were assembled at the evening meal. The father carved the roast chicken, and as he turned to each person he inquired
whether dark or white meat was desired. When little John's turn came he looked gravely up into his father's face and graciously replied: "Oh, it doesn't matter so much what I take,
just give me a little of all the other colors that aren't wanted."

WHITE HYACINTHS

By SYLVIA TURNER.

There had been seven weeks of steady rehearsing. Diane had grown to hate the very sight of a stage door
before the opening night of "Semiramide;" yet she had waited for neu-rally a year for this opening wedge in her chosen profession. Nobody knew except herself of the unceasing privations and self-sacrifice involved, yet
she had always written home cheerfully,
telling only the best that happened
to her. Perhaps even she never realized that it was not for the sake of the family she did this, but so they would tell Clint Lovejoy how wonderfully she was succeeding. There had only been a tact engagement, at least on Diane's side. If Clint had assumed more than she meant, she felt it was not her fault. He had never approved of her longing for the stage any more than he did of her changing her name
from Millie Edwards to Diane Lester.

Nevertheless she had come to the city with the two hundred dollars Grandpa Powell had left her. Then after weeks of haunting agencies and finding her bearings theatrically her youth and fresh charm had caught the attention of old Timmins as he passed through the waiting room of Barber Brothers, on his way to his private office. Thus it happened that Millie became Diane, an Arabian dancer in the great desert tent scene of "Semiramide."

Her "hit" was brief. A whirling bill of phantasy while a mimic sandstorm
raged outside the scenic tent and the orchestra played "Anitra's Dance," but she loved it with a strange sort of shivering anticipation. Wrapped in her cloak of brilliant colors, with yards of velvet swathed about her lithe figure,
she would stand eagerly at the first entrance trying to watch the rest of the performance. And it was here that Hardy noticed her first. He had stepped to the little switchboard above her head to regulate some of the lights.

"Better get back a little, kid," he said pleasantly.
Diane did not hear him even. She was watching Semiramide steal the signal ring from her sleeping spouse.
"Get out of this entrance and keep
out. Don't you know better than that?"

She stumbled to her feet and fled before the look in his eyes. She was nervous and did not see a cleat bolt
in the floor that had just been placed
there for a set piece in the next scene.
When she came to, she was in an ambulance rumbling through the night to an emergency hospital.

Instead of dancing to "Anitra's Dance" through endless nights of wonderment and oriental glamour, she found herself on a cot in a private room at a big hospital.

She did not want to alarm her family at home, so she wrote nothing about her accident. One of the girls in the company visited her and told her that Hardy asked after her every day.
"He picked you up, you know," she said, "when you tumbled, and carried
you into Tremaine's dressing room
near the door until they got the ambulance. Did he blow you up about standing in the entrance?"

"Oh, I guess I deserved it, all right,"
replied Diane, diffidently.
Yet she was not surprised when the next morning there arrived by messenger a large pot of white hyacinths.
On a card in an envelope was written:
"Best of luck to a plucky little girl, Alan Hardy."

It was that afternoon when the nurse
told her that she had a visitor.
Diane's heart beat faster. As the door opened, she glanced up, fully expecting to see Hardy, but, instead, there stood Clint, big and pugnacious, thoroughly roused over her plight.

"Well, I hope you've had enough of it now, and are coming home with me, Millie," he said. "I came to town
to see what you were like on the real stage, and they told me over at the theater I'd find you here. I guess this'll be a lesson to you. I'll go right downstairs to the office and make arrangements to get you out."

Diane's blue eyes snapped with indignation at his manner of authority
over her.

"You'll do nothing of the sort, Clint."
She sat up in bed in spite of the wrench of pain it gave her. "I'm not going home. I'll be out of here in a couple of weeks, and I'm going back to the theater." Clint left in anger to take the two o'clock train for home.

For another week Diane hugged her queer little romance of her own making in her heart. Every day, her nurse told her, Mr. Hardy had called up to inquire for her. And the fourth Sunday, when she was allowed to sit up in the solarium, he called to see
her.

"I loved the hyacinths," she told him.

"Did you?" his eyes looked at her eagerly. "I didn't know just what to send. Most girls like roses. I suppose you're discouraged now, and are going back home to your people?"

Diane shook her head.
"I haven't given up yet. I'm coming back to the theater next week for good."

"I'll bet it won't be for good," he said.

"This beef is as tough as leather!"
"Give it back!" exclaimed the restaurant man. "If it can be used instead

able than mere food."

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffering. Black-Draught Relieved.

Meadowville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills.
They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed
I was more constipated than before.
I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal,
no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape."

I cannot say too much for Black-
Draught for it is the finest laxative
one can use.
Thedford's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value
in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no

Americanism.
That in us which more distinctively than anything else we can call Americanism—our faith in humanity, our love of equality. One cannot claim that Americans of English origin are alone the depositaries of this belief, this passion. . . . The ideal American, which is the only real America, is not in the keeping of any one race; her destinies are too large for that custody; the English race is only one of many races with which her future rests.—William Dean Howells.

"Possibly it was our contemporary down the street," said the editor sweetly, fingering a paper weight. "We never print stale news!"

GIANT SMOKESTACK IN JAPAN

Pillar of Concrete 570 Feet High Erected at Smelter to Diffuse Harmful Gases Into Air.

Higher and higher rise the smokestacks of smelters and chemical works, in the effort to dissipate or diffuse into the air the sulphuric acid and other harmful gases. So far the loftiest chimney is the new one of reinforced concrete of the smelting plant at Saganoski, Japan, and this, though designed to withstand the earthquakes of the region, has a height of 570 feet, with an outside diameter of 42 feet 8 inches at the bottom and 26 feet 3 inches at the top, and a thickness of 29 1/2 inches at the bottom and 7 inches at the top.

The single concrete block forming the base is a truncated cone 17 feet high, 95 feet in diameter at the base and 42 feet at the top, with a top concavity leaving a bottom thickness of 7 feet. This base, which contains 2,711 cubic yards of concrete, is reinforced with 530 tons of plain round and square steel bars and the chimney has in its lower portion pairs of rings of three-eighths-inch square bars spaced six inches vertically, while in its upper portion single five-eighths-inch rings are spaced 7 1/2 inches. The chimney is on a hill 430 feet high with a steep slope to the water. An elliptical concrete flue, 30 feet in the larger diameter, leads from the smelter over a direct distance of 2,500 feet, but is laid zigzag to give a series of dust-collecting baffles.

ATTENDED NAPOLEON'S BURIAL

The last survivor of those who were present at the funeral of the great Napoleon has just died in a suburb of London. She was Mrs. D. Owens, daughter of Capt. James Bennett of the St. Helena regiment. She was nearly ninety-six years old. Mrs. Owen was born on the island on January 26, 1821, and when a few months old was taken by her mother to the emperor's funeral on May 9. When the body was exhumed in 1840 she was one of the women of St. Helena who worked and presented an embroidered silk flag which was unfurled at the stern of the boat containing the coffin as it left the shores of St. Helena.

DEBATE HEIGHT OF NAPOLEON

Writers Differ on This Point, But Measurement of Five Feet Seven Inches is Generally Accepted.

In view of the evidence in existence regarding the height of Napoleon, there cannot, I think, be much doubt that the measurements given by Darling are approximately correct, writes Arnold Chaplin in the London Times. The evidence is as follows: On the same day that Darling measured the body, Antomarchi performed the post mortem examination, and in the very careful report of that operation gave the height of Napoleon. He says: "La hauteur totale, du sommet de la tête aux talons, était de cinq pieds deux pouces et quatre lignes." (See "Les Derniers Moments de Napoleon," volume 2, page 117, edition 1898.) This measurement was, of course, expressed in the old French scale, and when reduced to the English equivalent is equal to about, though not quite, six and one-half inches.

Again, on August 22, 1817, Gouraud relates in his "Journal" that Napoleon was measured against the door of Mme. Bertrand's villa. He says: "Nous nous mesurons tous sur la porte, l'Empereur a cinq pieds, deux pouces français." (See Bourgaud's "Journal," volume 2, page 259.) This somewhat rough measurement when reduced to the English scale is about, though not quite, five feet six and one-fourth inches. It has often been stated that Napoleon was only five feet two inches in height, but evidently the old French measurement of five pieds deux pouces has been mistaken for the English one. It would appear, therefore, that Andrew Darling's measurement of five feet seven inches was very nearly correct.

HER CURIOSITY WAS NATURAL

But Matron's Question Was Embarrassing to College Girl Who Was Entertaining a Caller.

It was Sunday night and a feeling of leisure prevailed at the college dormitory. A blazing fire in the grate drew the girls into the parlor, where they sat, grouped around the fire, chatting, telling stories and listening to the soft music made by one of their number at the piano.

A man, a suitor of one of the girls by the fire, walked up and down the long porch, wondering if he dared to face those girls. He finally summoned all his courage and rang the bell.

A maid ushered him into the big room, and it seemed to him as if hundreds of eyes were turned toward him. His knees shook, but then the idol of his heart rose unconcernedly and greeted him. She drew him to one side to an alcove away from the others. The house matron was awakened from her dream.

"Mary," she called. "Don't you want to bring your friend out here by the fire?"

"No, thank you, Mrs. Robinson," replied the girl.

"But, Mary," persisted the house matron as she absent-mindedly looked around her at the girls sitting on the floor. "Have you two chairs in there?"

A shout of laughter from the girls greeted her and the reply from Mary was drowned, if indeed she answered at all.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Sibilant Story.
Solemn Socrates, sage senator, scarcely sober, scenting scene, stealthily seeks slumber sent. Such scandal! Sheds sandals; seeks staircase. Stops suspiciously; spouse snores serenely. Starts staggeringly; stumbles second step. Siam! Strikes sculptured Sappho surmounting stairpost. Suffering saints! Shatters statue; smashes skull, sees stars, swears something scandalous. Spouse stirs. Shri! soprano shriek—"Socrates!" Sphinxlike silence. Second shriek—"Socrates!" Socrates still speechless. Spouse's sole strikes staircase. "Speak, sir! Sober?" See scared stiff. Seeks salvation somewhere. Suddenly spies sneakthief stealing silver.

"Stop!" shouts Soc.

"Scat!" says sneakthief, showing six-shooter.

Spouse spies sneakthief. Screams superhumanly. "Shan't shoot Socrates! Shoot!" She shakes skirts, shielding Socrates. "Sweet Socery!" Sneakthief slopes sneakingly sardonically. Spouse swoons. Soc soothes spouse; seeks slumber. She still says sneakthief smashed statue. Soc saved. Seish!—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Crow.

Someone who reads these notes would like to know whether the crows in the United States migrate. Presumably to the South; how far south it would be hard to say. Stray crows are among the harbingers of spring in the northeastern part of the United States. By "growing time," like the rooks in England, but unlike the crows in that country, they assemble, often in large flocks, in roosts or rookeries. One of these is on the Potomac river, and is said to contain something like 40,000 of the birds in time of general reunion. They leave, in the gray of the morning, in clamorous crowds, for their feeding grounds, which may be a great many miles away from the rookery, flying high in fine and low in foul weather.

The Evils of Constipation

Constipation is one of the reasons why the average human life is below 40 years. Leaving waste material in the body, poisons the system and blood and makes us liable to sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness, and muddy skin. When you note these symptoms, try Dr. King's New Life Pill. They give prompt relief, are mild, non-gripping in action, add tone to your system and clear the complexion. Use of Mechanical Milkers.

The time saved by the use of the mechanical milker increases with the increase in the size of the herd. Thus with herds of 15 cows or less the average time required to milk a cow by hand is a fraction over seven minutes; by machine a fraction under five minutes. With herds of more than 50 cows it takes slightly under seven minutes to milk a cow by hand and but 4:15 by machine.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Jas. B. Winfree, after a protracted illness in the hospital at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., has returned home, having been discharged on account of physical disabilities.

President B. F. Gabby, of Bethel Woman's College, spent several days at the Russellville Sunday School Institute this week.

Mr. E. M. Jones, now of Little Rock, Ark., is in the city.

Mrs. M. D. Brown, of Indianapolis, Ind., who accompanied the remains of her husband, Judge Milton D. Brown, to Madisonville, where the interment took place, is spending a few days with friends and relatives in this city.

Mrs. W. A. Adecock left yesterday for Quincy, Fla., to visit her sister, Mrs. E. Boone Embry.

Miss Elizabeth Carey is visiting at Rochester, Ky.

Mrs. Sallie Moss is visiting friends in New Providence, Tenn.

Howard Gardner, of Detroit, Mich., has arrived in the city to take the place with the Standard Oil Co., lately vacated by Oscar Wright, who has gone to the officers' training camp at Indianapolis. His family will arrive in a few days.

Dr. O. F. Miller, a Homeopathic physician from Owensboro, Ky., has rented the Nuckolls place on the corner of Virginia and 18th streets, and will move to this city next week to practice his profession.

Kehoe Wins Long Suit.

Washington, June 27.—A long and bitter fight in Congress to obtain special legislation permitting a disabled Kentucky youth to be entered on the army rolls ended today when the President, in accordance with recent legislative authority, sent to the Senate the nomination of Cadet William Harold Kehoe, of Maysville, to be a Second Lieutenant of Infantry. Mr. Kehoe, the son of former Representative J. N. Kehoe, contracted tuberculosis as a result of injuries sustained when he was thrown from a horse while a cadet at West Point several years ago. He is now on duty at a Government sanitarium in New Mexico. Unless he fully recovers his health the Kentuckian will be placed on the retired list as a Second Lieutenant.

TWENTY MILES OF SOLDIERS

What the New Army Cantonment Will Mean to Louisville and Vicinity.

Washington, June 27.—Twenty miles of khaki-colored soldiers will be encamped in the edge of Louisville when the great army cantonment at that place, on which work has already been started, is ready and occupied. This suggestion is based upon official figures of the War Department, which give some idea of the gigantic proportions of the new conscript army of 625,000 that will be put in these camps for training.

At each of the sixteen cantonments which the War Department says must be constructed before September 1, there will be a full division of infantry, which, with additional troops, such as heavy artillery, aero squadrons and balloon companies, will swell the number at each camp to about 40,000.

This does not take into consideration the national guard and regular army at war strength, organizations which will be swelled to a force of 750,000 men.

This is what a division of infantry means in a mobile equipment to each of the sixteen cantonments: Six thousand eight hundred and forty-six horses; 4,875 mules, 1,000 wagons, of which 360 are to carry the rations, fifty three-inch guns, twenty-five three-eighth-inch howitzers, ninety-two machine guns, 32,000 rifles, sixty-seven motor trucks, twelve motor cars, sixty-four motor cycles, twelve aeroplanes, forty eight ambulances, and three hundred and twenty-eight other carriages.

If the division is motorized, the military column will be cut a mile in length, and there will be a material reduction in the number of horses and mules. The equipment of a division when motor transportation is substituted for horse and mule-drawn wagons is 2,587 mules, 6,713 horses, thirty-four motor cars, 627 motor trucks and 108 motor cycles. The ordnance, aeroplane and ambulance equipment remains the same.

With the expansion of the army's aerial equipment to a plane hitherto undreamed of, it is planned to have one or two aero squadrons at each cantonment. This is in addition to the squadron to be trained at the army flying schools. If there are two aero squadrons at both the Annapolis Junction and Petersburg camp, there will be at each camp an equipment for the air service two motor cars, forty-six motor trucks, forty-eight trailers, four repair trucks, twenty motorcycles, twenty-four aeroplanes, 313 rifles, 346 pistols and twenty-four machine guns.

Popular Mechanics Magazine For July.

One of the best numbers of an always worth-while periodical is the July Popular Mechanics Magazine. Concise, witty articles and striking illustrations present recent developments in science, mechanics and invention.

As is to be expected, various phases of the great war are touched upon. Its pages of illustrations telling, as no words can tell, of many aspects of the Titanic struggle and of America's entrance into it. A number of editorials by H. H. Windsor will give the patriotic reader very much food for thought. Perhaps the most pertinent note is struck in the concluding sentence of one of the editorials: "Don't waste; don't hoard; be normal; get busy."

An enlightening article is one on "Sirapnel," by Reginald Trautshold, M. E., and it should clear up many incorrect impressions regarding the much-talked-of projectile. The aeromarine torpedo, designed as a weapon to destroy hostile warships, is also described. It consists of a torpedo, suspended under a skiff, and towed by a flying boat. How the officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan was constructed in the record time of ten days is told in another article.

Mob Lynches Negro.

Galveston, Tex., June 27.—Chester Sawyer, a negro, accused of attacking a white woman, was taken from jail here and hanged near the city limits. The mob, composed of only a few men, entered the jail by a ruse and then overpowered the guard.

Louisville raised $250,501 for the Red Cross, $591 more than was asked.

An Extra F.

A superfluous "F" in a telegraph flash was responsible for the upsetting of American stock, cotton and grain markets last week, with much resulting agony and financial losses to individual operators. The "bull" occurred on the day the news came under the ocean of the sinking of three American sailing vessels. A hasty young man, employed in a Wall Street agency, was responsible. It was his duty to flash the news on the ticker. He did. But instead of saying one of the schooners was "of" Pensacola, he added an "F" and made it "off."

Secret Kept A Year.

In 1912 when Governor Marshall was elected vice president, Miss Dull was retained as his private stenographer in Washington. No mention was made of the marriage until Miss Dull returned to her home in Indiana recently. She resigned her place with the vice president at the close of the last congress.

Corns Loosen Off With Magic "Gets-It"

3 Drops Do the Work, Painlessly.

"I tell you, before I heard of 'Gets-It' I used to try one thing after another. I used salves and other things that ate off more of the toe than they did the corn. I'd cut and dig with knives and scissors, but now no more fooling for me. Two drops of 'Gets-It' did all the work. It makes the corn shrivel and get so loose that you can just pick it right off with your fingers!"

There has been nothing new discovered for corns since "Gets-It" was born. It's the new way—the common-sense, simple, sure way. "Gets-It" is sold everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in Hopkinsville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by L. L. ELGIN.

John L. Thurmond Wants

The Democratic Nomination.

We are authorized to announce JOHN L. THURMOND as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Assessor of Christian County. Subject to Primary election August 4th.

Mayor Gets Ultimatum.

Raymond B. Fosdick, of Washington, Chairman of the Commission on Training and Camp Activities, has stated that Louisville "must close its disorderly houses and keep them closed" in order to retain the army cantonment. Mayor Buschmeyer Monday stated that Louisville would not close the houses of prostitution unless homes could be provided for the inmates. The Mayor stated that he did not feel that he would be performing his duty by throwing upon the community the women who have lived in these houses without proper homes could be found for them. However, the houses of ill fame have decreased from 177 in 1915 with 487 inmates to 103 houses and 215 inmates according to a report just received by the Mayor.

Could You Do This?

On January 28, 1901, Harry N. Pillsbury visited Kansas City, where he played twelve games of chess and three games of checkers with local devotees of those games. The games were, of course, carried on simultaneously, Pillsbury sitting with his back to the boards, the moves of the players were called out to him. He would immediately call back the name of his own piece, specifying on which of the sixty-four squares it was to be placed, and won every game. In Chicago, in 1900, Pillsbury played sixteen simultaneous games blindfolded in four hours and fifty-five minutes, winning twelve, drawing three and losing one.

Getting Something Out of Life.

You are not getting half as much out of life as you have a right to unless you seek to discover the principle involved in your every experience and in every bit of knowledge that you acquire. The acquisition of wealth or power, the garnering of facts, the amassing of joy, sorrow and other emotions mean nothing in themselves. The reason for all experience is the development of the sensibilities in order to broaden the consciousness of the unity

DOGWOOD NOTES.

The farmers are all about through setting tobacco and are busy planting corn.

Miss Ella Carpenter, one of Hopkinsville's telephone operators, is spending the week at home.

Mr. Fred Overton is conducting a singing school at Fruit Hill. Quite a number from this place are attending. Mr. and Mrs. John Sneed, of Hopkinsville, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Alex. Sneed, of this place.

Mr. Rodman Duvall and family spent Sunday with Mr. Joe White's family. We are having two Sunday Schools at Dogwood every Sunday—one at the Christian church at 9:30 in the morning, and one at the Baptist church at 2:30 in the afternoon. Everybody is invited to come and bring somebody with them.

Mr. Walter Cobb and wife and Mr. Hilley Cobb, of Hopkinsville, spent Sunday with Mr. Charlie Carter and family.

Miss Opal West was in Hopkinsville Saturday.

The debate at Dogwood a few weeks ago between Bro. Henry Moore and Irvin Foster and Rev. T. T. Powell and Henry King was greatly enjoyed. The crowd went away cheering Bros. Moore and Foster for the victory they had won.

Miss Annie Ford spent Sunday eve with Miss Opal West.

Mrs. Georgie Renshaw spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Jennie West. X V Z.

Immigrants Make $107,000.

Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, tells in the July American Magazine of a wonderful man. He says:

"Do you know that the biggest income made by a New York Life man in 1916 was earned by an agent who came from German Poland to America in the steerage of an ocean liner—who arrived here friendless, penniless, and without a working knowledge of the English language."

"Last year this man made $107,000 in commissions alone, an amount $32,000 greater than the salary of the President of the United States. When you consider that many life insurance agents make less than $1,000 a year, you will see what this immigrant's achievement signifies."

"Yet there is nothing surprising to me in this. Almost every man has undreamed of possibilities. If something hits him in the right spot, if his ambitions and energies are unloosed, he will quickly discover these possibilities. Otherwise he may pass through life in an easy rut, never tapping the great reserves within him."

"No Account" Husbands.

Washington, June 27.—Capt. Allen Gullion, U. S. A., of New Castle, who was Colonel of the Second Regiment, Kentucky National Guard, on the border, has received a novel assignment in the War Department. The Kentuckian is attached to the staff of Brig. Gen. Crowder, the Judge Advocate of the army, in charge of the national army registration.

His assignment is that of handling thousands of requests by wives who have written to the President and the Secretary of War, urging that their husbands be drafted for the army. These women insist their husbands "are no account" and are appealing to the President to put the alleged delinquents in the trenches of France. It is Capt. Gullion's task to investigate the truth of these statements of the wives, so that the facts may be taken into account if any of the husbands when drawn for service in the first army of 625,000, claim exemption to support their families.

Meet at Eddyville Today.

Eddyville, Ky., June 27.—One of the group meetings of the Hopkinsville district for the woman's missionary work of the Louisville Conference will be held here Thursday, June 28, Mrs. Ida Chappell, Hopkinsville, district secretary, presiding. Mesdames Lander Chisholm, first vice president and Holland Garnett, second vice president, both of Pembroke, will be present. Mrs. John Lawrence, of Cadiz, has been assigned a special subject.

Head Pirate Ill.

Geneva, June 26.—Admiral Alfred Von Tirpitz, former German minister of marine, has arrived at St. Blaise, in the Black Forest. He is suffering seriously with diabetes.

Grand Admiral Von Tirpitz has been Germany's chief advocate of unrestricted submarine warfare. He had much to do with building Germany's great fleet and is known as "the father of the German navy." He retired as minister of the navy in March, 1916, ill health being given as the reason.

Root seems to have done some good work in Russia.

Twelve Appointments.

Hon. W. J. Bryan has twelve appointments under the auspices of the Democratic Forward League for a whirlwind tour of Kentucky in behalf of submitting a real "dry" constitutional amendment to the state constitution. The dates, or the speakings are as follows:

Friday, June 29, Maysville.
Saturday, June 30, Georgetown.
Sunday, July 1, Cynthiana.
Monday, July 2, Lawrenceburg.
Tuesday, July 3, Williamstown.
Wednesday, July 4, Louisville.
Thursday, July 5, Owensboro.

Riot at Clay.

Frank Harris was killed and several other men wounded in a riot at Clay, Ky., Saturday night, between union and non-union miners. The father of Frank Harris, who was killed by a shotgun in the hands of a man whose identity is unknown to the authorities, requested county and city attorneys to arrest William Alderson on a charge of murdering his son. Shortly before he died Harris is said to have accused Alderson, a union miner, of having shot him.

Louisville jitneys quit business Saturday.

An Electric Pistol.

An inventor has turned out an electric pistol built along original lines. It does not use gunpowder or cartridges, but is so constructed that its contents, gases, are exploded by a touch of the button and a projectile is expelled. The pistol consists of a brass cylinder at one end of which is a small battery and coil. The gases are introduced from the outside or from a small tank attached to the pistol frame, explains the Electrical Experimenter. Although the use of electricity in this case is merely an experiment, it is evident that it can be used to produce exactly what powder does, explosion in a confined space and the swift movement of a missile. Mankind began with a club and a stone to deliver blows. The bullet is only a small but speedier object than a hand-thrown stone, wounding at a greater distance than is possible with a spear or arrow.

Folly of Self-Importance.

It is sheer folly for any worker to be carried away with the idea of self-importance. Good men and great men die and their places are filled by others who seem to do quite as well. It is true that all employers dread changes unless forced to make them—they dread the period of probation when taking on new workers. So good workers are reasonably safe and the employers who appreciate them are reasonably sure of a continuance of satisfaction.—Exchange.

Joining Red Cross.

Mrs. Blakemore announced the following new applicants for membership in the Red Cross:

Mrs. Frank K. Yost, Mrs. M. E. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. H. Brown, Miss Annie Forbes, Mrs. J. J. Metcalfe, Mrs. C. P. Smith, Mrs. Lucy Ellis, Mrs. Guy Starling, Mrs. M. H. Tandy, Mrs. Green Russell, Mrs. T. J. Reynolds, Mrs. J. H. Dagg, Miss Mary Blackwell, Mrs. T. L. Metcalfe, Mr. and Mrs. Vitus Gates, Dr. and Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Mary S. Starling, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Peterson, Mrs. Lizzie Clark, Miss Martha Soyars.

Covington-Hopson.

The news has been received in this city of the marriage on June 16, of Miss Hattie Hopson and Mr. John Y. Covington, of Akron, Ohio. The groom is a printer by trade holding a position in Akron, O., and the son of Mr. J. W. Covington, of this county. The bride is a niece of Mrs. J. W. Covington. The happy couple will make their home in Akron. Both the bride and groom were formerly of this city and their many friends here wish them the greatest happiness in the future.

Liked It Better Before.
Edna wanted to go to the play with her mother, but was told she would not enjoy it. However, after much coaxing, she was allowed to go. When she returned her father asked her how she liked it. "Well, daddy," she replied, "I liked it a whole lot better before I went than I do now."

Chewing Gum.
Much of the best chewing gum is said to be made from the gum of the chicle tree, found in Mexico. It was first introduced into the United States in 1870, and soon largely replaced other gum materials then in common use.

MOOSE SHOD WITH SILENCE

Animal Weighing More Than Half a Ton Can Stalk Through Thick Forest Without Making Sound.

A bull moose can traverse a thick forest without making a sound. Although taller than a horse, weighing more than a half a ton and adorned with wide spreading antlers, the bull moose stalks with ghostly silence through thickset forests, where man can scarcely move without being betrayed by the loud crackling of dry twigs. In summer it loves low lying, swampy forests interspersed with shallow lakes and sluggish streams. In such places it often wades up to its neck in a lake to feed on succulent water plants and when reaching to the bottom becomes entirely submerged. These visits to the water are sometimes by day, but usually at night, especially during the season when the calves are young and the horns of the bulls are but partly grown.

Late in the fall, with full-grown antlers, the bulls wander through the forest looking for their mates, at times uttering far-reaching calls of defiance to all rivals and occasionally clashing their horns against the saplings in exuberance of masterful vigor. Other bulls at times accept the challenge and hasten to meet the rival for a battle royal. At this season the call of the cow moose quickly attracts the bulls. Hunters take advantage of this and by imitating the call through a birch bark trumpet bring the most aggressive bulls to their doom.

CELTIC JAPANESE ODD RACE

Decorations Tattooed on Faces of Women Are Supposed to Enhance Their Matrimonial Prospects.

The Ainu, the Celtic race of Japan, live in the Island of Yeddo, although the race has become so reduced that there are now not more than 16,000 or 17,000 of them left in the country, according to the Indianapolis News.

The most noticeable peculiarity about Ainu women is that they have tattooed upon their upper and lower lips what resembles a mustache. The women are not considered attractive, and their matrimonial prospects are quite injured without this decoration. The mustache is begun when the girl is quite a child. It is done gradually, a little each year, until it extends partly across the cheek, the material used being the soot from burning birch bark. The face is cut and the black rubbed in. Afterward it is washed in a solution of ash bark liquor to fix the color.

The Ainu women are usually finely formed, straight and well developed, with small hands and feet, their eyes are beautiful soft brown, their hair black and most luxurious, and their complexion olive, with often a deep, rich color on their cheeks. The native cloth of which their garments are made is woven from the fiber of the bark of the elm tree.

IVAN AS SEEN IN TRENCHES

Letter From Artist in Trenches Tells How Russians Face Death in Fierce Fighting.

The Paris Figaro contains many letters from Russian soldiers who, before the war began, were residents in Paris. One, an artist, thus describes a scene one evening before orders were carried out by the regiment to make a move in the rear. At a certain place on the Russian front the gaselag from the enemy became unendurable, largely because of the weak location of the Russian trench. To remain where the regiment was was to court certain annihilation. To retire meant volleys of shells. It was resolved to retire. A few minutes were given for Ivan—the Russian boys—to prepare.

"One of them," writes the Figaro's correspondent, "took from his breast a cross and kissed it three times. Then, looking toward the dark sky, repeated the sacred words, 'mother, father and wife. He replaced the cross in his breast, and said, quietly, 'I am ready.' He was the first to fall under the merciless fire of the enemy. Another soldier, not long in the trenches, and speaking with an eastern accent, knelt in the cold, damp trench, and went through his devotions. 'It will be easier,' he said, 'for me to die than Ivan here. I have no one to care for me.'"

But he got through the scrimmage to our rear trench. Such are the fortunes of the trench in this eastern fight.

"Fresh" Fish in East.

Each year millions of pounds of fresh halibut and salmon are transported from the Pacific to the Atlantic seaboard cities, or about 8,000 miles to market. Millions of consumers residing along the Atlantic, unaware of the history of the fish they consume, imagine that these once played in the waters of traditional New England. They congratulate themselves upon living so close to the ocean and being able to have a fresh supply of luscious fish the year around. They never dream that men have worked night and day along the shores of distant Washington, Oregon, California and Alaska, that railroad trains have been rushed across states, all for their benefit.

Rubber Producing Plants.

Of all rubber producing plants, only guayule grows wild within our borders. In the Big Bend territory in Texas a large district, only second in size to the Chihuahuan field in Mexico, is available. Why not extend this field over the arid lands of New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada? Waste land would be utilized, and a valuable product secured. Guayule is not new to the American rubber man, unfortunately it is almost ancient history to him. It is safe to say that there are scattered over this country at least fifty desiccating plants, intended primarily for the treatment of this rubber. At one time they furnished about one-fifth of the entire rubber used in this country. The total production of the Mexican guayule fields was about 10,000 tons of the washed and dried, but not desiccated, rubber a year, from 1905 to 1910. In 1911 it began to fall off, and the recorded production for 1912 is 3,500 tons. About 80 per cent of this production was exported to the United States. Since 1912 guayule has been comparatively unimportant.—Metallurgical and Chemical Engineering.

Red Cross Dogs.

The "Boxer" breed of dogs is the result of a cross between the German mastiff and the English bulldog. It is this breed of dog, according to military observers, that has proved to be the king of the Red Cross dogs in the European war. These Red Cross dogs, in whom character and training are said to outweigh pedigree almost without exception, are first taught to distinguish between the uniform of the soldiers of their country and that of the enemy. Then they must learn that their principal business in life is finding and aiding wounded soldiers. By a very special kind of training Red Cross dogs are taught to seek rather than to trail wounded soldiers and to bring back news of finding injured men. This the dogs must learn to do without barking, for the enemy is always on the alert and ready to shoot.

Under Perpetual Cloud.

There are people who, through constitution mental or physical, have let themselves fall into the worrying habit, so that life is under a perpetual cloud. They are always expecting the worst things to happen; they indulge in positive orgies of evil anticipation. One might even say they luxuriate in it, to the detriment of their own activities, the destruction of their peace, the annoyance of their friends. So far as they cannot help this, they are to be pitied; but very often they can help it, or at least could have helped it before they allowed the habit to take possession of them.—Exchange.

Produce Infertile Eggs!

Infertile Eggs Keep Best and Market Best in Summer Heat

Fertile Eggs Spoil Quickly in Summer Weather

FERTILE EGGS COST THE FARMER AN ENORMOUS SUM EACH YEAR

Farmers lose millions of dollars annually from bad methods of producing and handling eggs. One-third of this loss is preventable, because it is due to the partial hatching of fertile eggs which have been allowed to become warm enough to begin to incubate.

The rooster makes the egg fertile

The fertile egg makes the blood ring

You can save the money now lost from blood rings by keeping the male bird from your flock after the hatching season is over.

The rooster does not help the hens to lay. He merely fertilizes the germ of the egg. The fertile germ in hot weather quickly becomes a blood ring, which spoils the egg for food and market. Summer heat has the same effect on fertile eggs as the hen or incubator.

INFERTILE EGGS WILL NOT BECOME BLOOD RINGS

After the hatching season cook, sell or pen your rooster. Your hens not running with a male bird will produce infertile eggs, quality eggs that keep best and market best.

Rules for Handling Eggs on the Farm—

Heat is the great enemy of eggs, both fertile and infertile. Farmers are urged to follow these simple rules, which cost nothing but time and thought and will add dollars to the poultry yard returns:

1. Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens.
2. Gather the eggs twice daily.
3. Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.
4. Market the eggs at least twice a week.
5. Sell, kill, or confine all male birds as soon as the hatching season is over.

NOTICE Valuable published information on the raising and care of poultry and eggs and individual individual advice on these subjects may be obtained by writing to the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD IN 1917

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. The great war in Europe is now half way into its third year, and, whether peace be at hand or yet be far off, it and the events to follow it are sure to be of absorbing interest for many a month to come.

These are world-shaking affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the

HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKIAN (Tri-weekly.)

together for one year for $2.65. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00

Irony and Sarcasm.
Irony may be either gentle or cutting. Sarcasm, however, is always bitter or taunting. It may or may not be ironical at the same time. Satire is usually applied to a more or less formal holding up of the follies or vices of society. It is always preceded by the satirist's personal sense of the ridiculous. It often makes use of both sarcasm and irony.

Grounds for Suspicion.
She—"Do you really think I married you for your money?" He—"Well, the way my money has been going, it looks suspicious."

Antonio Stradivari.
Antonio Stradivari was born in 1644, and died in 1737, ninety-three years of age. His early violin was made like his master's and signed with his name. In 1670 he first began to sign his own instruments with his own name. During the following 20 years he only made a few. The year 1690 was one of transition in his career, but still he preserved the tradition of the Amati school, and his violins of this period are commonly called Stradivari Amatis. His first instruments were constructed from 1700 to 1725; during the subsequent five years to 1730 the workmanship of them is not of so high an order, and in 1730, or even a little earlier, the impress of Stradivari is almost entirely lost.

A WORD WITH WOMEN

Valuable Advice for Hopkingsville Readers.

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells and dizziness, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed, such aches and pains follow.

Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone. Doan's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Hopkingsville woman's convincing statement:

Mrs. H. F. Baker, 210 W. Seventeenth St., Hopkingsville, says: "My kidneys acted irregularly and I suffered from inflammation of the bladder. I felt weak and dull and my back was sore and lame. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and bought some of Cook's Drug Store. They relieved all symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble and I felt much improved."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Baker had. Foster-Milburn Co. props., Buffalo, N. Y.

TO CONSERVE HUMAN LIFE.

A campaign for the conservation of human life is proposed by the federal council of churches. Preliminary announcements include a study of causes and conditions; acquaintance with agencies in the public health field and the co-operation of churches with them; the preparation of leaflets, social exhibits, motion pictures, textbooks and a monthly publication.

SURE SIGN.

"Is he doing his bit for his country?"
"I guess so. He came over and borrowed my garden tools."

SO IT IS.

"Why do they say that speech is silver but silence is golden?"
"Well, for one reason, silence is much rarer than speech."

PLUNKVILLE NEWS.

"What did you do at the sewing society last meeting?"
"We patched up a quarrel between two of our members."

ENCOURAGING.

"So you really think you have some chance with Miss Coldcash?"
"That's what. She is beginning to find fault with my necktie."

Croup, Whooping-Cough, Relieved

Children's diseases demand preparedness. When the child wakes you at night, gasping and strangling for breath, how thankful you are to have Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey at hand. This effective remedy loosens the mucous and permits free and natural breathing. Its soothing balsams heal the irritated membrane and arrests further inflammation. Pleasant to take. Keep Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey in the house for all colds and bronchial troubles. At your druggist, 25c.—Advertisement.

Floating Islands.
Many floating islands have at various periods been found voyaging on the Atlantic. These islands were originally part of the lowlying river banks, which broke away under stress of storm or flood and floated out to sea. The Orinoco, the Amazon, La Plata and other tropical rivers often send forth such pieces of their shores. Some of the bits of land are of large size and carry animals, insects and vegetation, at times including trees, the roots of which serve to hold the land intact, while their branches and leaves serve as sails for the wind. Generally the waves break up these islands shortly after they put to sea, but sometimes, under favorable conditions, they travel long distances.

What He Was Doing.
After a busy day Howard was finally tucked away in bed, and his mother retired to the living room for a few minutes of well-earned rest. It wasn't long until there was a commotion and a thud which told plainly that Howard had fallen out of bed. On inquiry of his mother what he was doing out of bed, the reply came back: "Dittin' back in."

FAILURE LEADS TO SUCCESS

This is One of the Inspiring Principles of a New Psychology of Work, Says College Professor.

In the American Magazine is an article by Herman Schneider, dean of the school of engineering of the University of Cincinnati, who has devoted his life to a study of human ability and fitting the right job to the right man. Among other things Dean Schneider says:

"There is a new psychology of work. One of its most inspiring principles is that the man who makes a failure on one job is likely to make a success of the job of an opposite type, assuming, of course, that he fails in the face of real effort. This is the significance of failure, it points the way to an occupation which means success. Failure to a willing man is merely misplacement on his job. Failure at one job is not a calamity it is an indication. Every failure is a guide post to success."

"Fortunately some employers are beginning to understand this. When a man fails in one job, they shift him to another of an opposite type. And if the worker is not lazy or dishonest, he usually succeeds. No foreman should be allowed to discharge a man. He should merely report to a central office that the man is not successful on his particular kind of work. In another department he may break records. To fire a man who has failed at one job is poor business. The shifting of failures means the making of successes."

STONE WITH MAGIC POWERS

Great Rock in Himalayas, Home of Spirits and Witches, Credited With Miraculous Properties.

The Himalayas are the home of countless gods, spirits and witches, and anything at all out of the common is at once attributed to supernatural agency.

A certain enormous rocking stone, so they tell you, possesses several miraculous properties. For instance, if a small portion of it is chipped off and put into the milk a much larger yield of butter may be expected.

On the top of the boulder will always be found a large number of small pebbles. The story the natives tell about these is that if a man is expecting an addition to his family the rocking stone will prophesy for him the sex of the child, says Wide World Magazine.

The method of procedure is delightfully simple. The man stands some little distance away and throws a pebble on to the top of the stone. If it remains there the child will be a boy; if it falls off, a girl.

They do not tell you how often the prophecy proves false, but, judging from the number of pebbles which may always be found resting on its top, this Himalayan rocking stone enjoys considerable popularity as an oracle.

SERIOUS MATTER.

"What's the trouble between young Mrs. Flubdub and her husband?"

"Her husband tried to keep something from her."

"Oh, men will have their little secrets. They are not serious."

"This was serious. He tried to keep $2 of his last week's pay."

DIDN'T WANT ANY.

"Young man," began the stern father, who used the same old stuff all the other fathers do, "a rolling stone gathers no moss."

"That's all right, dad," reassured his harum-scarum offspring, "I ain't in the market for any moss."

NATURALLY.

"Did your lawyer think this a feasible course?"
"Aren't all courses feasible to a lawyer?"

Patriotism.
It should be the work of a genuine and noble patriotism to raise the life of the nation to the level of its privileges; to harmonize its general practice with its abstract principles; to reduce to actual facts the ideals of its institutions; to elevate instruction into wisdom; to deepen knowledge into wisdom; to render knowledge and wisdom complete in righteousness and to make the love of country in the love of man.—Henry Giles.

Boarders in the World.

The people who always live in houses, and sleep on beds, and walk on pavements, and buy their food from butchers and bakers and grocers, are not the most blessed inhabitants of this wide and various earth. The circumstances of their existence are too mathematical and secure for contentment. They live at second or third hand. They are boarders in the world. Everything is done for them by somebody else.—Henry Van Dyke.

Take an Interest.
If parents would keep the confidence of their children and understand them, they must take an interest in their play. This does not mean that it is enough to watch them play. We must get their viewpoint, understand what it means to them and, if possible, play with them sometimes. At one time there was no place in crowded city life for children. Now the community has recognized that they have some rights and playgrounds with kindly supervisors are growing more and more numerous. The nation will be richer in years to come for thus providing for the play life of its children.

Jim Hill Freed of Charge of Murder Last Spring.

OTHER COURT CASES

Josh O'Brien Gets Three On Housebreaking Charge.

Circuit Court is rapidly winding up its business this week.

Tuesday morning Josh O'Brien, col., was tried for breaking into McCord Brothers' grocery and given three years.

Canada Quarles, a negro woman charged with killing her husband, in South Christian, was acquitted.

James Hill was tried Tuesday afternoon on the indictment charging him with the murder of Walter S. Sims last spring in this city. Sims went to Hill's house and Hill claimed he ordered him to go away, but Sims picked up a hoe and hit him, whereupon he shot and killed him. Sims was shot in the back, but Hill claims Sims turned to run as he fired. The jury evidently took kindly to the self-defense theory, as a verdict of acquittal was brought in soon after the case was submitted. Hill, who had been in jail since the tragedy, was at once released.

Piece Without Victory.

The ancient joke about the Winged Victory in its present battered state was revamped in the light of later history in an art class. A plaster cast of the Victory was before the class. The young modelers in clay potted around and went away. One of the modelers had chosen only to work upon the hem of Victory's garment, so to speak, and left behind a replica of a mere fragment of the Victory. The next day the student found written on his fragment this inscription: "This is a piece without victory."

SELL COAL AT A FAIR PRICE

Cost To Be Fixed By Producers With Approval of Defense Council.

THUS FAR, NO FARTHER

Action Taken After Officials Warn Them U. S. Might Take Over Output.

Washington, June 27.—Four hundred coal operators representing the great fields of both bituminous and anthracite pledged themselves here to sell their product at a fair and reasonable price, to be fixed, with the approval of the Defense Council's Coal Committee, by special committees of seven producers from each coal mining State.

These special committees also are authorized to confer with the Defense Council's committee "to the end that production be stimulated and plans be perfected to provide adequate means of distribution.

The operators' action, in the form of a formal resolution adopted amid applause, came at the close of an all-day conference which opened with addresses by Secretaries Lamm and Daniels, John T. Fort, of the Federal Trade Commission, and Assistant Attorney General Lewis, all of whom frankly warned the producers that unless they themselves established a fair selling price and proper regulation of the industry their output would be taken over by the Government.

MINCES NO WORDS.

Secretary Lane minced no words in telling the coal men they should be patriotic enough to forego profits for successful conduct of the war.

"The success of the country in this great war," he said, "rests on you and you are responsible just the same as the soldiers in the trenches, Pershing in France or the President in the White House. You control the fundamental industry. How much vision have you? Are you small or big; are you petty politicians or statesmen? The country will not stand anything but a large policy from large men. There must be some new adjustment of the coal industry. When your boy and mine are going to the front is no time for you to reap an advantage even when it comes under normal demands of trade. The life of the nation is at stake and there are greater things than making money. Is there a man who will say to me: 'You can send your boy to France while I stay here and coin his blood into dollars?' To be an American citizen is not merely to make a million dollars, but it is to uphold the arm of the man who is making the fight for his country."

VANDALS' WORK REPAIRED

Good Work is Being Done by Americans, French and British.

French Front, June 27.—American, French and British civilians are working in closest co-operation with the French military and civil authorities in restoring the lands devastated by the Germans when they hurriedly quit the lines they had held for two years from Noyon to Somme. The Associated Press correspondent, after visiting Noyon, the adopted daughter of Washington, went through the entire district and observed what was being done.

Others have followed the example of the federal capital and have devoted their energies to the succor of particular localities. The American fund for French wounded has stepped aside from its original idea and taken full charge of the hamlet of Behericourt, with its 125 remaining inhabitants, all of whom were in the greatest distress. American women have seen to it that these poor people are provided with their most necessary requirements in the way of food and clothing.

Then came the question of putting in cultivation again the 250,000 acres of agricultural land comprised in the zone. It was late in the season, but a practical scheme was at once formulated and put into effect. Officers of high rank were placed in charge. The devastated country was divided into seven sections and composed of twenty-seven communes, each in charge of an officer, with skilled aides. Horses were loaned by the army, broken plows and harrows were repaired by motor mechanics of the army, seeds of all kinds were procured and work on the land was begun. For this manual labor was necessary, and this was found among the many peasants and small farmers in the ranks. Thirty American tractors were found lying idle in a depot not far from the stricken district, and these were transported to the places where they could be most useful and put to work.

In this way about 4,000 acres have been plowed and sown with grain and grass, and another 2,500 more plowed and cleared of weeds, while with the help of American, English and French donors every family has been provided with seeds and roots to form a truck garden, with the result that sufficient produce is expected to make the community self-supporting.

Billy Sunday's converts in New York numbered 98,264, and his pay was $114,000.
